

International Student Conferences

2012 Annual Report

International Student Conferences (ISC) is a non-profit organization incorporated in Washington, DC. It facilitates two academic and cultural exchange programs organized by university students in the U.S., Japan, and Korea: the Korea-America Student Conference (KASC) and the Japan-America Student Conference (JASC). Beginning in 1934, JASC is the first and oldest exchange between the two countries that is conceived and carried out by university students. Patterned after the JASC model of a student-run Conference, the first KASC launched in 2008.

Our Mission

ISC's mission is to promote peace by furthering mutual understanding, friendship and trust through international student interchange.

Our Values

ISC believes in the long-term value of mutual understanding, friendship, and trust achieved through cultural interchange in student-run conferences. ISC delegates, volunteers, employees, board members, and alumni believe in the following core values for its student-run, cross-cultural conferences:

- The importance of developing mutual understanding and friendship as the path to peace.
- The power of an open mind and a willingness to exchange opinions in building a respect for differences.
- The unique ability of students, with their idealism, enthusiasm, and vitality, to plan and implement important peace-building events and activities.
- The imperative of investing in the present to positively transform the future.
- The absolute commitment to integrity, honesty, and frankness.

Our Programs

ISC programs provide an intensive, month-long experience in which equal numbers of students from the U.S. and partner country live, travel, work, and study together in a conference-like setting. What makes ISC programs unique is that, ever since its founding in 1934, ISC conferences are entirely planned and administered by the students themselves. The students host roundtables, field trips, seminars, and distinguished speakers, working toward the goals of better understanding each other, forming friendships, gaining trust, and fostering international peace during their lifetimes. Every ISC gathering is characterized by full and frank discussions, undertaken with a spirit of understanding each other's point of view.

*Yuuki Shinomiya, Esq.
ISC Executive Director*

Executive Director's Message

This past year, the generosity of several key supporters, as well as numerous alumni and friends, enabled ISC to carry out our two annual programs, the Japan-America Student Conference (JASC) and the Korea-America Student Conference (KASC). We could not have accomplished what we did this year without your help.

In 2012, ISC programs brought together a total of 114 students. The student delegates formed 12 roundtables, hosted 43 speakers, and took 27 field trips throughout 10 regions in 3 different countries.

For the 64th JASC, the Japanese and American Executive Committees developed the theme "Share in the Present, Connect for the Future: Strengthen Ties to Inspire Change." The 72 delegates traveled to four diverse sites across the U.S. – Dallas, Madison, San Francisco, and Seattle – while examining seven roundtable topics ranging from security and post-crisis reconstruction (i.e. Tohoku earthquake and tsunami) to the environment and the arts.

For the 5th KASC, the Korean and American Executive Committees crafted the theme, "New Possibilities, Infinite Potential." The 42 delegates visited a range of university hosts throughout the U.S. – Trine University in Angola, Indiana; American University in Washington D.C.; University of Missouri in Columbia, Missouri; and the University of Southern California in Los Angeles, California – while exploring five roundtable topics, a few of those included were environmental law, politics, and education.

ISC programs continue to succeed in humanizing and strengthening the U.S.-Japan and U.S.- Korea relationships. ISC entrusts our student leaders to take on an unprecedented amount of responsibility in creating their own conferences. The political, economic, and cultural ties grow ever stronger between the two countries, but the real strength is most evident in our students – they are transformed into leaders of the next generation. With their interests and expertise in Japan, Korea, and the U.S., students go on to become leaders of their chosen field – whether in government, business, non-profit, or academia.

We are proud of our accomplishments this year and grateful for our stakeholders, supporters, students, staff and interns who made this possible. For years to come, we hope to continue cultivating many more leaders. Thank you.

Yuuki Shinomiya

Executive Director, ISC

Overview

“JASC was a chance to put things I learned in the classroom setting to practice in a live environment with real-time and real world feedback.”

*-Danielle Wilson
Senior, Tufts University*

The 2012 Japan-America Student Conference (JASC) marked the 64th meeting of the longest running student-led exchange between Japan and the U.S. From July 24th to August 21, delegates visited Dallas, TX; Madison, WI; Berkeley, CA; and Seattle, WA.

The conference brought together a group of 72 enthusiastic and diverse student delegates representing 52 universities across Japan and the U.S. Under the theme “share in the present, connect for the future: strengthen ties to inspire change,” delegates met in roundtable discussion groups to exchange opinions on topics ranging from business ethics to interpretations of modern art.

Delegates also participated in cultural activities, field trips, public forums, receptions, business visits and lectures. JASC’s culminating public event, the final forum, drew an audience of over 75,000 online viewers on the Japanese social video streaming site Nico Nico Japan. The forum featured presentations by students that demonstrated the program’s ability to reinforce values of mutual understanding, friendship and trust through cross-cultural interchange.

Dallas, TX Southern Methodist University

The 64th JASC commenced in Dallas, TX at Southern Methodist University. Here delegates focused on issues important to the region, like immigration, and enjoyed cultural activities including a Texas-style barbeque.

Overview

The 2012 Korea-America Student Conference (KASC) was another step towards building the premier student-led exchange between Korea and the U.S. From July 1st through July 29th, delegates visited Angola, Indiana; Washington, D.C.; Columbia, MO; and Los Angeles, CA.

The conference brought together a group of 42 enthusiastic and diverse student delegates representing 24 universities across the U.S. and Korea. Under the theme “New Possibilities, Infinite Potential,” delegates met in roundtable discussion groups to exchange opinions on topics ranging from presidential elections to social enterprise.

Delegates also participated in cultural activities, field trips, public forums, receptions, business visits and lectures. Highlights of the program included a six party talk simulation at a Washington think tank, a briefing and tour of a Boeing manufacturing facility and the Final Forum, where presentations by students demonstrated the program’s ability to reinforce values of mutual understanding, friendship and trust through cross-cultural interchange.

We thank our supporters and invite you to join us!

Grants

from private foundations provide critical support for JASC and KASC.

Corporate Supporters

are able to raise brand awareness in Japan, Korea and the U.S. by sponsoring our programs and are able to participate in events giving them access to our vast alumni network.

Individual Donors

are mostly alumni of the program, but also friends and supporters of U.S.-Japan and U.S.-Korea friendship in general. Historically, the conference has thrived on the strength of its generous alumni community.

In-Kind Supporters

provide services or goods to ISC in order to reduce programming costs. ISC often benefits from in-kind donations of venue space to host events. Volunteering for ISC is another way to provide in-kind support.

Colleges and Universities

provide scholarships for their students to participate in the conference. Host universities can support by providing services at a reduced rate or assisting students in their planning of program content.

Eunjoo Ryoo of Sungkyunkwan University thanks Onur Ozlu of the World Bank for making a presentation during KASC.

Why the change in program services expenses from year to year?

ISC operates on a two-year budget cycle due to the exchange nature of both programs. Years in which the programs are held abroad typically incur a moderate net gain that is used to offset higher costs during domestic program years. In Fiscal Year 2012, our programs were held in the United States.
